Tugboatman Faces Trial For Murder

Burly city tugboatman Leo Anthony Mantha, 31, was committed for trial on a charge of murder yesterday following a two-day preliminary hearing behind closed doors in Esquimalt court.

Mantha is charged in the Sept. 6 knife-slaying of AB Aaron Jenkins, 25, in the Nelles Block at HMCS Naden.

The preliminary hearing was held "in camera" after Crown prosecutor W. R. McIntyre said it was in the best interests of justice to do so.

LEO A. MANTHA

Taxpayers In Favor

It may come as a shock or surprise to the reeves of Oak Bay and Saanich, but apparently their ratepayers aren't by any means dead-set against helping pay for a Greater Victoria auditorium.

On the contrary, the majority of a random sampling yesterday favored it.

CHANCE TO VOTE

Mayor Percy Scurrell has announced he will propose to the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee Friday that the people of the whole area be given a chance to vote in December on a "painless" plan to build a civic auditorium. His plan is that a small tax should be levied at a uniform rate throughout Greater Victoria to finance the auditorium.

REEVES COOL

Reeves Fred Norris of Oak Bay and George Chatterton of Saanich are cool to the idea. Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt is willing to consider it.

The Colonist set out yesterday to find what people thought at the taxpayer level, rather than the reeveship level. Here are the results:

"It's a good idea," said William T. Rutherford, garage operator, 852 Esquimalt. "They should go ahead with it. They've been talking about it long enough."

TOURIST TRADE

"I would be all right," said Mrs. Douglas McPherson, 3849 Douglas. "It would help the tourist trade."

"I don't think much of it," said Jerry Coad, a Douglas Street service-station man, of 949 McBarr. But across the street, druggist Clayton Bruce of 3300 Whittier said, "A civic auditorium is certainly needed."

LITTLE COOL

"I am a little cool to paying more taxes," said Mrs. Frank Jenvey, 435 Ker. "Saanich taxes are already high, but it's needed and $2 or $3 wouldn't make much difference."

WE NEED ONE

"We need one," said Mrs. R. T. Obee, 2074 Quimper. "I live in Oak Bay, my taxes are reasonable. I couldn't complain about a little extra."

"An auditorium would be good but I doubt if I would go to it," said Mrs. Dorothy Harris, 441 Constance. "I am on a limited income, but would be willing to pay $2 or $3 extra a year."

TOO HIGH NOW

"Taxes are too high now. I wouldn't want to see them go up any more," said Mrs. Leonard McAlpine, 634 Michigan.

"How long would it go on for? Our taxes are rough enough now. Saanich is dynamite. I would like to see an auditorium, but I don't want to pay," said Mrs. Gordon Ash, 3248 Glasgow.

"An auditorium is essential to Greater Victoria," said Donald Smith of 2665 Dewdney. "And it should be supported by Greater Victoria."

"I wouldn't mind paying a small tax," said Mrs. Ralph McRae of 488 West Obed.

TREMENDOUS

Mrs. T. D. Forsyth, 2587 Beach Drive, recently from Calgary said the auditorium there was a tremendous success. "Victoria should definitely have the same."

An old-age pensioner, Mrs. Fred Parker, 384 West Gorge, wants an auditorium but "I can't afford my taxes as it is."

"Haven't they got one already in the arena?" asked Alan Robins, 1048 Hampshire.

"An auditorium would be wonderful," said Mrs. Maurice S. Speller, 3839 Saanich. "And you can't get anything for nothing."

A Warning to Others

Mother of Norman Stewart, 14, of Nanaimo, who nearly lost the sight of one eye when it was struck by a BB pellet while he was playing with another youngster, last Saturday, said yesterday she only hoped the experience would serve as a warning to others of the dangers of guns in the hands of unsupervised children. The injured boy is still undergoing treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria, where his mother, Mrs. Norman Stewart, visited him yesterday. His sight will be saved.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

B.C. Mental Health Service Run Down, Charges Doctor

KELOWNA (CPI)—Provincial mental health services are rapidly deteriorating, a Vancouver doctor said yesterday.

The doctor, Frank Turnbull, made the assertions in a paper read at the annual convention of the B.C. Medical Association.

UNTRAINED HELP

He told the convention that a special committee has reported that:

1. There is evidence of deterioration in the mental health services of B.C.

2. All principal departments are short of adequately trained help.

3. Percentage turnover for the entire staff was 35.6 per cent.

WAITING TIME

4. Waiting time for an initial visit to the new out-patient treatment facility at Burnaby is about four months.

5. "This expensive institution" is being used at a fraction of its capacity.

6. The medical staff lacks any sense of pride in the mental health service.

SENIORS QUIT

7. Senior men leave to enter private practice and their places are taken by men with meagre psychiatric experience.

8. A similar deterioration in the experience level of personnel is evident in most of the departments.

Dr. Turnbull said the special committee recommended that a comprehensive survey be made of the mental health services.

INADEQUATE

"There is sufficient evidence at hand to indicate the standards of presently available psychiatric care in these services are inadequate," he declared.

REV. DAN McIVOR

'Rev. Dan' Filled Up By Tribute

FORT WILLIAM (CPI)—"I feel kind of full up tonight," said 85-year-old Rev. Dan McIvor as some 325 persons from all walks of life and all political groups gathered last night to pay him tribute after representing the Fort William, adding in the federal house for 23 consecutive years.

The wiry Irish-born United Church minister was the oldest member in the house until his retirement prior to the March general election.

His long time friend and associate, C. D. Howe, ex-federal trade minister, was in attendance along with Liberal leader Lester Pearson, Ontario Liberal leader John Wintermyer, MPs from all northwestern Ontario ridings, and CCF member Douglas Fisher of Port Arthur.

Family at His Side

POPE DIES

Peace Ends Ordeal

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (UPI)—Pope Pius XII died peacefully at 3.52 a.m. today in the 20th year of his reign. He was 82.

The "Pope of Peace," whose long tenure as supreme pontiff was a continuing struggle against war and communism, slipped into death in a simple iron bed covered by a white canopy. A crucifix lay on his breast, and a rosary was twined through his fingers.

His last words before lapsing into unconsciousness yesterday were: "Pray, pray that this regrettable situation for the church may end."

WELCOMED DEATH

Those around his bedside took this to mean that he welcomed death to enable the College of Cardinals to undertake the ritual of electing a new Pope from among their number.

At the Pontiff's side when he died were his nephews, princes Carlo, Guilio and Marcantonio Pacelli and the Pope's aged housekeeper of many years, Sister Pasqualina Lehnert, a German nun.

SOLEMN MASSES

Vatican sources described the deathbed scene:

After a solemn mass for the dying recited in the adjoining chapel by Msgr. Domenico Tardini, two more masses were said. The last words of the third mass were recited at 2.30 a.m. An hour of silence followed. At 3.30, a physician beckoned to those in the room and soundlessly indicated that the end was near.

Sister Pasqualina gently sponged water across the Pope's still lips during the recital of prayers for the dying by all present.

At one point, she lifted the crucifix from his breast and put it near his mouth. A choked, rasping sound came from the Pope's lips.

Then, Dr. Antonio Gasbarrini put a stethoscope to the Pope's chest. He felt for a pulse, turned around and said:

"E morto" — "He is dead."

CARDINALS MEET

Arrangements began immediately for the nine days of funeral services. The cardinals will meet tomorrow morning to elect a chamberlain to handle the affairs of the church.

Since midday yesterday, the entire papal staff had known that there was no chance Pope Pius could live.

Finally, Father Francesco Pellegrino, on the Vatican radio, told the world:

"With deeply saddened soul we give you now, at 3.56 a.m., the following announcement: The Pope is dead."

REIGNED 19 YEARS

Born Eugenio Pacelli, son of a Roman nobleman, on March 2, 1876, the Pope had lived 82 years, seven months and 7 days. He was crowned Pope on March 2, 1939, and reigned 19 years, seven months and seven days.

He had been a vigorous Pope, the first "modern" pontiff, who had flown in 1927, used a typewriter, and travelled widely.

GATES CLOSED

At the news of his death, the entrance gates to the Vatican were closed and the giant bells of St. Peter's began the solemn ringing that proclaims the death of a Pope.

The body will be taken in state to Rome's ancient Church of St. John in Lateran. From there, it will be taken to the frescoed Sistine Chapel for final lying in state.

Burial will be in the Vatican grottoes.

Britain's ambassador to the Holy See, Sir Marcus Cheke, called at Castel Gandolfo with messages from the Queen, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Masses will be held and church bells will be rung in West Germany for 15 minutes daily for one week.

Radio Free Europe altered scheduled programs to Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, and Bulgaria over its 28 transmitters to announce the pope's death.

National mourning was expected to be proclaimed in Spain.

Bad Cheque Spree Suspects on View

A group of Greater Victoria businessmen will travel to Nanaimo today to view five suspects in a bogus cheque cashing spree on the Island Saturday.

At least seven bogus cheque victims from Oak Bay, Victoria and Saanich will attend an RCMP police line-up in connection with an estimated more than $1,000 in worthless cheques passed on the Island.

Five men brought from Burnaby last night will appear before Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts in Nanaimo police court this morning, on charges of passing forged cheques in the Nanaimo area.

Investigating officers in Victoria said at least eight bogus cheques valued at more than $400 have turned up in the Greater Victoria area, and "more are turning up all the time."

The cheques bore the names of Coastal Towing Co. and Eute Towing Co. of Vancouver. Company officials said the cheques were false.

Children Forced to Struggle Against Bitterness, Ignorance

G. E. Mortimore's
'The Strangers'

(This is the 26th chapter of "The Strangers" a continuing report on the plight of B.C. native Indians)

Critics of Catholic Indian schools led me to believe that Catholic educators would be an obtuse, bigoted crowd. But I found them mainly good-humored, intelligent and devoted men and women.

I talked to a number of the pupils at Tsartlip Consolidated Indian Day School near Brentwood. They were friendly, polite (though not covered) and plainly fond of their teachers, the sisters of the Heart of Mary Immaculate—an order colloquially known as the Hollywood Sisters because they are from California.

The school, which serves over 100 children from five Indian bands, including 10 who come across on the ferry from Malahat, is highly regarded by most Indian parents. I heard praise of it even from people who are usually wasteful in their criticism of separate schools.

Two of its ex-pupils have gone out to be teachers—Benjamin Paul, to Kamloops residential school; Marie Cooper, to the school of the order in Los Angeles, where she plans to take the vows of a sister.

Contrasts

I am not a Catholic myself, but as I looked through that neat school and talked to its patient, reasonable teachers and happy children, I felt that I would be satisfied to entrust my own children to its care.

At another denominational Indian day-school, I talked to a teacher who was bitter, prickly and intolerant. She was the kind of person who automatically "brushes people the wrong way." What kind of an effect would she have on sensitive, withdrawn Indian children? She told me that Indian children were stupid, not co-operative and unteachable, and their parents lazy drunkards.

Low Morale

The research team which compiled the thoroughgoing report called "The Indians of British Columbia"—also known as the Hawthorn Report—sent out questionnaires to Indian teachers. The committee's analysis of the replies was phrased in a tactful way, but its meaning was clear. The tone of many of the replies showed a dangerously low morale and lack of understanding of the needs and motives of Indian pupils.

"About two thirds . . . emphasize partial . . . failure. They write that life children cannot benefit from the schooling or some aspects of it, that its results will be ephemeral or negative; that parents fail to appreciate the school and its dians need to be better, not worse, than other teachers. They need to have a sympathetic understanding of Indian history; the structure of languages (ideally, knowledge of the native language of the region); an Indian life; and a steady temperament.

Indian teachers should be the elite of the profession. Since sport, music and art are a common medium of communication between the races, perhaps the ideal Indian teacher would be skilled in all three, so that children could follow him by example.

Must Pay More

To get people of this calibre, the Indian affairs branch must resign itself to paying salaries far above provincial scale.

The Hawthorn Report suggests that teachers should be informed of a basic fact of biology: that there is no difference in intelligence between races. The teachers should be flexible and tolerant toward Indian cultures, so as to help children get along in the white world without turning them against their fathers.

Unthinking people remark: "Why educate Indians? They only go back to the reserve." But if they do go back, they help raise the level of their village. A survey of Indian children in the U.S. showed that the more years the mother had spent at school, the better the child did in his studies—especially in subjects that involved the use of words. Even if an education is put to direct practical use, it makes a stepping-stone for the next generation.

Level Improved

Tsartlip Indian Day School surveyed the attainment of its pupils in 1947-57 compared to that of their parents. The children averaged Grade 9; the parents, Grade 4. In recent years, everywhere in Canada, the level of Indian schooling is up; truancy is down.

When delegates to an Indian conference earlier this year complained that the little school at Klemtu had been closed for a year for lack of a teacher, F. Earle Anfield, assistant commissioner of Indian affairs for B.C. and former principal of Alert Bay residential school, challenged the Indians to produce their own teachers to help meet the deficiency.

A few Indians have become teachers. But they do not always make good teachers for Indian schools, because they are too close to the problems of the pupils, and they tend to tie themselves in emotional knots.

The Hawthorn report suggests, among other measures, special text-books for Indian schools, closer to the daily experience and the traditions of Indian pupils. Many Indians tend to be older than the average non-Indian pupil. Books about neatly-dressed city children much younger than themselves are meaningless. The report suggests that special study courses and simply-written books on contemporary Indian life be available to teachers.

The Hawthorn committee looked with approval on the trend to integration of residential-school pupils in provincial public schools, expressed hope that the task of the residential schools would more and more be taken over by public schools; and suggested that small residential schools be consolidated.

Humanity Needs

"The residential schools should do the utmost to humanize their living conditions, in order to achieve the utmost stimulation of child growth, which often languishes in institutional living. There should be a review of their use as welfare agencies for which they are not professionally designed. The present practice of consigning troublesome children to residential schools is not followed by an adequate programming. More scrutiny should be given to the policy of using them for children of broken homes.

"The stronger, more stable children can probably benefit from the (residential school) program more than others. Yet these are the ones who now are likely to find it difficult to enter."

Some critics suggest that education in some Indian schools is too academic and not practical enough; that more trade training facilities should be made available.

Varied Subjects

About 65 Indian young people come in their middle and late 20's—are now training at Vancouver Vocational Institute, in subjects that include beauty culture, bookkeeping, secretarial work, electrical work, power sewing, practical nursing and welding. Principal Dean Goard says 79 per cent of Indians successfully complete their courses, compared to 72 per cent of non-Indians. The greater number are getting and keeping jobs.

The Indian affairs branch pays a substantial amount of board and tuition fees, and keeps an eye on their welfare. Parents and students contribute when they can. At St. Paul's hospital in Vancouver I talked to a number of Indian girls in training to be registered nurses.

were making good progress, except for an occasional tendency to forget what time it was. Two Indian girls have graduated from St. Joseph's in Victoria and have done well as nurses—but two had to be suspended for drinking.

Most Do Well

Groups of Indian boys and girls take short trade and community development courses at UBC's Youth Training Centre. And about a dozen Indian boys a year attend the Dominion-Provincial trade school at Nanaimo. "Eighty per cent of them do pretty well, but some of them are lazy," said Principal John W. Macready. "And sometimes you'll get a boy who's a technical genius, but just can't keep up with the academic side." Among the courses they take are diesel, cat-skinning, welding and motor mechanics. Some garagemen are reluctant to accept Indian motor mechanics. "It seems more difficult to place Indians, altogether—except in the logging camps," the principal admits.

Six Indian students are now attending UBC.

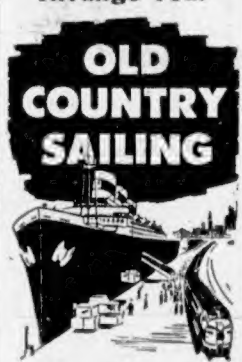

Many Handicaps

A determined effort has to be made to ease the special school problems of Indians, from primary to graduation. Language is sometimes a handicap. Those who speak their native language in the home might have to be started a year earlier than non-Indian children.

Some Indian children come to school after a breakfast consisting of a slice of bread and a cup of tea. A few from the poorer homes get lice in their hair. Some children arrive dead-tired as a result of all-night parties being held in their homes.

One school principal told me he had to expel a 15-year-old who repeatedly came to classes with hangovers. There is no way to measure how serious the drinking problem is among Indians. However, a problem does exist.

ALLABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

ALDERMAN Geoffrey Edgewood, who drives a 19-foot car, recently complained that some of Victoria's metered parking spaces were too short. Assistant city engineer Norman Worsley assured him that as new meters were installed or old ones replaced, the spaces were lengthened to 22 feet.

Mr. Edgewood has a right to drive a car 19 feet long—or 90 feet long, if he needs one that size. Nearly all the city fathers drive long cars. (City manager Cecil Wyatt has a small one.)

However, as cars grow longer year by year and take up more space, they clog the city's traffic arteries. Downtown business has more and more trouble drawing breath.

Is there any obligation on the part of city fathers to show an example to the rest of the community by driving small, space-saving cars? Not at all. The needs of their businesses may compel them to drive big cars.

However, they would cut a more convincing figure in city council debates on the parking problem, if they drove small cars.

A European model now on the market is just eight feet from bumper to bumper. It holds two people comfortably.

Two of these cars can be parked comfortably in the space occupied by one of the cars that the aldermen drive. But here's the catch: If you try to park two of these cars in one meter, a policeman gives you a ticket.

The law does not allow you to park two cars in one space. Why not? Because it would do the city out of a nickel.

When the city fathers installed meters, they said the infernal machines were intended to keep traffic moving and conserve parking space.

However, they have lost sight of the purpose of the meters. Now they look upon them as a money-making device. That is why the city won't let small cars park two to a meter.

Meanwhile the aldermen themselves—and thousands of other citizens—drive cars that are so long and inflated that the city has to lengthen the parking spaces to fit them in.

Ask an alderman why this strange situation exists, and he will answer approximately as follows: "A-hem! These—er—small cars. You can't go putting two of them to a parking space. There wouldn't be room. You can't—ahuff! fuff! let people get away with that kind of thing."

"Why not?" If you keep pressing him, the alderman can't tell. In fact there are two reasons. One, aldermen are afraid a few nickels will slip away from the city treasury. Two, aldermen are big-car drivers themselves. They do not understand the small-car man's viewpoint, or sympathize with it.

Neither of these is a valid reason. But these are the motives that decide the way that questions of this kind are settled.

I challenge anyone to produce a single valid reason why two midget cars should not be parked in one space. If I am proved wrong, I will admit it.

Poor Entry May Close Course at 'Y'

Despite a shortage of students, a weekly course in water safety for boys from 14 to 18 will open in the YMCA banquet room at 7 p.m. Friday.

But if interest does not pick up soon, the course may end after this week. Only 13 boys have applied for the 40-student course, probably because the course previously has been held in the spring.

LOCAL LABATT BREWMASTER WINS INTERNATIONAL AWARD

MR. FRANK LEWARNE (left) receives the "Prix d'Excellence" for Labatt's Pilsener, highest award won in North America in the Belgium World Beer Competition, from Mr. L. J. Dupuis, Belgium Consul.

Canada has scored another outstanding success in international competition—this time in the field of master brewing. At the recent World Beer Competition, in Ghent, Belgium, Pilsener Beer, brewed by Mr. Lewarne, was awarded the highest Canadian honour of a Prix d'Excellence. Labatt's award represents a major achievement on the part of Canada's brewing industry. One hundred and sixty-nine breweries from all over the world took part in the competition, and entered over 360 of their finest brews.

Hopes Cease-Fire Lasts

U.S. Stops Escort Of Quemoy Convoys

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced yesterday the convoying of Nationalist Chinese supply vessels to Quemoy has stopped.

It was said that the Chinese Communists start shooting again the escort system "will be resumed forthwith."

State department press officer Lincoln White told reporters the "entire purpose of the United States in the Quemoy crisis has been to bring about a cease-fire and obviously we hope the present cease-fire will continue."

The Communists began an announced seven-day truce period Monday. State Secretary Dulles and other Eisenhower administration officials are trying to figure some way to get the truce extended into a permanent cease-fire.

If the Chinese are willing to extend their cease-fire indefinitely, the way will be open for active U.S.-Chinese Communist negotiations for a compromise settlement of the Formosa dispute.

But while there was hope, there was no real optimism here about a permanent cease-fire. The U.S. government does not know what the Communists aimed at in announcing Sunday that their shelling of Quemoy Island would be suspended for a full week.

An unescorted Chinese Nationalist landing ship put tons of ammunition and 450 troop replacements ashore on Quemoy yesterday, the third

Pope Pius XII

ALTHOUGH the end was presaged by the gathering weight of his physical disabilities at an advanced age, the passing of Pope Pius XII will be learned with regret throughout the civilized world. His high courage and amazing constitution had encouraged numbers to believe that he would weather the grave threat of the onslaught which unhappily has proved terminal. As the supreme head of one of the great Christian faiths, the Pontiff was widely esteemed for his earnest dedication to responsibilities and duties which centred in the highest office within the gift of the Roman Catholic Church.

Pope Pius XII grew to influence in his church and brought distinctive capabilities to bear in times which involved perhaps more human upheaval and social unrest, in wars and their aftermaths, than had applied in any other period in modern history. The personal respect he earned, not only from those of his own creed but also in wide measure outside of it, was recognition of the degree to which he gave of himself in an office of unique obligations. To the millions of his faith the Pontiff's passing will be a sad blow; while in every Western land his advice and counsel on the secular affairs of nations will be missed.

Out With Wednesday Closure

CONVENIENCE of the shopping public, expansion of tourist trade, the legitimate interests of Victoria's heavily taxed merchants, opportunities for increased employment and, not least, the principle of free competition in business are elements involved in whatever decision the city council reaches today on proposed bylaws respecting store hours.

After years of conflict and confusion, heightened in recent months by the temporary adoption and subsequent repeal of six-day shopping, by inconclusive surveys of merchants' wishes and by the vigorous campaigns of rival factions in the retail trade, the council is now ready to deal with the issue finally. The alternatives to be placed before it this afternoon appear to have been reduced to the simplest possible terms within the somewhat evasive provisions of the new Municipal Act.

The aldermen may approve or reject a long list of exemptions from the half-day closing requirement, which would in effect establish universal six-day shopping. If it turns down the six-day-week proposal it may act on a watered-down bylaw attempting to define and exempt the wares of small neighborhood shops and drugstores, the effect of which would be to leave the situation unchanged.

Defeat of both proposals would close the city to retail trading on Wednesday afternoons—while stores in the neighboring municipalities continue to do business.

Logic as well as material considerations favors passage of the six-day proposal. Whatever course of action the council chooses, obviously it cannot please everyone. Equally obviously the withdrawal of regulations which, legal though they may be under an ill-judged statute, constitute unwarranted interference with competitive trade would satisfy the majority if to those merchants favoring six-day opening are added the consumers and the many non-retailing operations whose prosperity depends on the tourist industry.

Disguised though it sometimes is, the only remaining purpose of store closing regulation is to restrict competition—and in a way that is unenforceable fairly or uniformly. Enlightened labor laws and union contracts amply take care of the original purpose, the protection of employees against being over-worked. In these days it is absurd as well as unwarranted for a municipality to interfere in this way with the legitimate operations of its retailers and to put upon its police force expense and responsibility which have nothing to do with the preservation of law and order.

It Is a 'Hall' That Is Needed

NUMEROUS voices are being raised in support of a civic auditorium now that this project has come out of the doldrums and once more become a live issue. Talk aplenty there has been before but this time it looks as though the matter might be grappled with thoroughly. With so many people in favor of this much needed amenity there will be small excuse if nothing concrete results.

One idea that might well be scotched at the beginning is that of an "all-purpose" auditorium similar to that in Spokane. This design fascinated its proponents once before, but it is not the kind of building that Victoria requires. A stadium of multiple purpose, mixing sport with concert use, would not fill the bill at all. That type of building in any case usually serves neither purpose satisfactorily.

Victoria's requirement is a main chamber or concert hall suitable for musical and theatrical performances, meetings, conventions, and other related use; with smaller ancillary rooms and facilities which together would comprise a centre of civic interest. There is no necessity for needlessly grandiose notions. If the main hall seated up to 2,500 or 3,000 people that would be ample. Plans have a tendency to grow, but there should be no thought that the sky is the limit. There is far more chance of an auditorium really being built, also, if the project is geared to sensible but modest requirements.

Paper Commands

A DISPATCH from Ottawa advises that the RCAF's tactical air command, employing 1,800 personnel with headquarters at Edmonton, will be absorbed by the transport command. Presumably lest anyone think the air force is being unduly whittled down it is pointed out that the tactical HQ never controlled any regular RCAF squadrons anyway. The immediate question is: what were the 1,800 personnel doing other than using up defence monies?

One has in mind that not long ago the army's 1st Division headquarters was abolished, and with a somewhat similar tale to report. Its command was also more theoretical than actual, its brigades separated by thousands of miles as well as an ocean, creating an operational set-up no divisional commander could hope to oversee. Supposedly it also employed a large number of personnel doing goodness knows what.

Are there any other commands, one wonders—naval, military or air force—which exist on paper and effectively nowhere else, but which wastefully use up the energies of men in uniform and dent the defence budget into the bargain?

Interpreting the News

Education to Self-Government

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PREMIER Charles de Gaulle seems determined to kill any ideas that France is trying to cling to her territories in black Africa against their wishes. Perhaps also he expects to teach the Africans a lesson.

This is one interpretation of the Paris announcement that French Togoland will be given complete independence—an announcement coming only one day after de Gaulle chopped French links with Guinea.

Guinea now has become the third black African independent country, along with Liberia and Ghana, and this is a matter of pride to the population of 2,125,000.

Premier Sekou Toure, although he led the move for independence, is disturbed at the prospect of losing French aid, and is speaking of some sort of dominion status with France. He knows only too well that Guinea's economy, based mainly on bananas, is not the strongest in the world.

Toure thus seems to be seeking to follow the example of Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, who kept his country within the framework of the British Commonwealth after gaining independence in 1957.

It is this problem of making haste slowly—economically, socially and politically—that is testing the wisdom of African and European leaders, and it varies greatly from country to country.

In the current issue of Western World the problem is discussed from opposing viewpoints by Nkrumah and Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Central African Federation which is scheduled to receive dominion status in 1960.

The federation linking white-dominated and wealthy Southern Rhodesia with Northern Rhodesia and black Nyasaland is sometimes said to betray racial policies akin to those of South Africa.

Says Nkrumah: "I am quite convinced that no type of government which either makes racial discrimination an official policy or condones such practices can hope to do any good for the peoples of Africa."

"No society except a democratic one which consistently outlaws such policies and conscientiously practises the principles of equality in all its aspects, can be thought of as doing anything to enhance the welfare of the peoples of Africa."

Sir Roy, while stressing that each African country has to work out its own approach, says "It is manifestly impossible for a régime based on a 'one-man-one-vote' basis to apply" to his federation.

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

WHEN the forecast says sunny and dry and the day turns out to be dull and wet, you're apt to wonder how come the weatherman holds his job.

That is a grouse, of course, based on disappointment. For all of the truth that we'd shrivel to nothing if no rain ever fell, few of us like to get wet.

A poet once said it should be just as easy to rejoice when "God sorts out the weather and sends rain," but you'd never think so. We want the climate to be similar to the other amenities of our cosy, snug lives—chromium plated.

So that when the forecast says wet, and dull and the actuality is dry and sunny, we are glad the weatherman picked this particular loser and forgive him easily.

Statistically, I believe, we are mostly all wet at the end of the year when figures support his totality of forecasts, and not because of rain. Mathematics make mincemeat of memory.

No one should forget this summer in a hurry, though; no Victorian I mean. I missed two months of the year, wearing two sweaters in other parts of the globe while many of you went in shirtsleeves. Victoria's been a favored place.

I daresay the weatherman's been equally pleased, for his batting average must be high for 1958. If there's been a more delightful summer anywhere—leaving out the forest fires—that place isn't yet plotted on the map.

And yet, you know, after this surfeit of sunshine, some Victorians are getting ready to pack off to Honolulu for the winter. Faint hearts they are, that's what, and very ungrateful. For a lot of folk elsewhere have been eyeing us all year long with extremely jealous eyes.

That must be why a glaciologist in Seattle said recently that the whole northwest including us was in for a hot time soon—meaning cold. A glaciologist naturally deals in ice and snow.

There's going to be a throwback, he says, to the pre-1920 era. I wasn't here then, but I've heard about a famous downtown snow pile in 1916 when the troops at the Willows were called on to rescue the street cars.

It makes me shiver to think of it, but I'm not really perturbed. If a weather forecaster is puzzled on an evening to prophecy the next day's rain and shine, how's he going to guess ten years ahead?

Anyway, as usual with the experts, they don't agree. Our own weatherman, for instance, disputes any such idea and that being so I'm all for him. It's nice to be lulled by a prospect that's pleasing.

He says the weather goes up and down, and there's no rhythm to it. I've often thought that myself—in other summers—but I've kept my doubts quiet. He says too that nothing has been proved about weather cycles.

That's comforting. A year back I began to think these atomic explosions were upsetting the cycles, but then what about this summer in Victoria. Unless it simply was that the cycles followed me across the Atlantic and left you all in idyllic content.

The best thing I've read about the weather, however, is this, voiced by a French savant: "I have my foggy and my fine days within me." But perhaps he never had to go out in the rain.

Reports from Ottawa

THE word "phoney," my Oxford dictionary says, is American slang dating from 1902. Furthermore, it's likely a variety of "fawney," meaning a worthless ring. And this, it says, comes from the Irish word "faine," which means a ring.

One would infer that English lasses looked askance at rings offered by Irish lads.

Anyway, to get back to phoney; that, the lexicon says, means "counterfeit, sham."

And that is the word Liberal leader Pearson used the other day in reference to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mind you, within hours Pearson had apologized, explaining he had been carried away by the heat of his political feelings. But the inference is left that while the opposition leader may regret having publicly called the prime minister a phoney, he still thinks Diefenbaker is a phoney.

What I find most interesting about this is that Pearson used the exact word that several other politicians have applied to Diefenbaker in the last couple of years. To my certain knowledge—both first-hand, and reliably second-hand—in private conversation some MPs of all three parties have made that unflattering assessment of the PM. One veteran Tory MP, if you please, referred to his leader and prime minister as "the biggest phoney in the House of Commons."

All of them have one thing in common: they have suffered stinging political defeat at the hands of John Diefenbaker. Even this Tory MP. He was one of those who lost their positions of power and prestige in the party when Diefenbaker became party leader. So they're not exactly unbiased observers.

Furthermore, Diefenbaker has offered strong proof that in important things—and I underline the phrase—he says what he means, and does what he says. He made a good many election promises in the last year and a half. He has acted to carry out most of them—the South Saskatchewan dam, cash advances to grain farmers, higher pensions, tax cuts, public works, roads to the north, aid to the Maritimes, and others.

His opponents argue that he had no alternative; that he couldn't weasel out of his promises and expect to survive another election. But this ungenerous explanation cannot alter the fact that he did what he had promised to do.

This is the forthright Diefenbaker; but there is another side to him, the political side. Above all, he is acutely conscious of the political effects of the things he says and does. His remarks often seem aimed at political effect rather than public illumination, and consequently are not infrequently at variance with what others consider to be the facts.

Sometimes he is trapped far out on a limb. For example, his statement that he had negotiated significant changes in the regulations covering Canadian official visits to the DEW line radar stations operated by the Americans. Pearson called his bluff on this by asking repeatedly that the new regulations be produced in Parliament. They have not been. They are not likely to be. The chances are so insignificant that their production in Parliament would make it obvious the PM had grossly exaggerated their importance for his own purposes.

Another instance was his explanation that he couldn't be bothered, over the course of eight or nine months, to correct a statement widely attributed to him, namely, that he would seek to reduce imports from the U.S. by 15 per cent.

But does the PM's dissembling, his word-twisting, his flamboyant wooing of political support mean any more than that he's a fast man for a vote—too fast, maybe, for the liking (or the likes) of those who call him a phoney?

The Packsack

by GREGORY CLARK

THE other day I saw a crowd quickly gathered on the street, and I hurried over to see what the excitement was.

I could hear chuckles and laughter coming from the centre of the crowd, and some of the taller ones on the fringe of the crowd, where I was, were smiling delightedly. But before I could get anyone to tell me what was going on, the crowd broke up as suddenly as it had formed, and everybody went his happy way.

I never did find out what went on. I overtook two or three and walked beside them, enquiring eagerly of them. But they just smiled and said: "Aw, it was nothing."

Nothing!

Some years ago, the Packsack presented the aluminum industry of Canada, and of the world, with a free idea. Normally they would have had to pay thousands of dollars and a bonus to whichever engineer in their employ came up with the identical idea. It is this:

What the world needs is a little

10-inch step ladder, made of light, strong aluminum, and small and compact enough to fold up and go in the pocket of short men.

Thus when those things, dozens of which occur every day, attract us short men, we can whip out our ladders and, no matter how late we arrive on the scene due to our short legs, we will be able to find out what is cooking.

And say to all the world, "This was a man!"

End of a Crisis

New Hope For Mid-East

By W. N. EWER, from London

SINCE the week in July when the revolution in Iraq was followed by the sending of American troops to Lebanon and of British troops to Jordan as precautionary measures, we have talked of the "Middle East crisis." Mr. Krushment, spoke of the imminent danger of a new world war. That was a characteristic exaggeration. But the situation was full of dangerous possibilities.

Now the announcement of the coming withdrawal of the Americans from Lebanon and of the British from Jordan is a signal that the "crisis" is ended. There are still many difficulties—and doubtless many troubles ahead. But it is possible to share that "confidence of the Jordanian government that the situation will improve" which has enabled the British government to decide to withdraw its troops.

And this should open the way not only to better relations between the Arab countries but to a new start in the Middle East generally. It should, for one thing, bring easing of the tension between the United Kingdom and the United Arab Republic.

Credit for ending the "crisis" goes clearly in the first place to the United Nations Assembly and to the secretary-general. It is a convincing answer to jeering criticisms of the United Nations as a futile body incapable of settling disputes or of removing "threats to the peace."

But credit goes to the United Kingdom and U.S. governments, whose troops maintained stability in the area while the General Assembly resolution was passed and Mr. Hammarskjöld enabled to visit the area; also to all governments whose co-operation has been essential for the implementation of the Assembly resolution of Aug. 21 and of the "arrangements" which Mr. Hammarskjöld has proposed in accordance with that resolution.

The sense of that resolution and of the secretary-general's report has been that two things are required for the restoration of normal conditions. One, what Mr. Hammarskjöld calls the "implementation of a general good-neighbor policy, especially in relation to the Lebanon and Jordan." The other, the withdrawal of British and American troops.

It was bound to be what is often called a "package deal." But, in the circumstances, no kind of formal agreement or "bargain" can even be suggested. And how easy it would have been to become involved in a deadlock about priority. The British government might have insisted on, for example, restoration of Jordan's communications across Syria before it could decide to withdraw troops. The government of the United Arab Republic might have refused to give any assurance of "good-neighborliness" until the troops had left.

That danger—which might have been a very real one—has been averted. The British government's decision to withdraw troops has been taken in view of "assurances given to Mr. Hammarskjöld by the other Arab governments concerned that they intend to conduct their relations with Jordan in accordance with the Assembly resolution" and in view of "the confidence of the Jordan government that the atmosphere will improve." But it has not been made subject to any conditions. Equally the assurances given to the secretary-general in Cairo were not made conditional on the withdrawal of troops.

The U.A.R. government has given its assurances unconditionally in the hope that Britain and the U.S. would then withdraw their troops. That hope has been fulfilled. The decision to withdraw has been taken in the hope that President Nasser will honor his assurances. That hope necessarily remains for the moment a hope. But I look with some confidence to speedy action, such as the re-opening of Jordanian trade routes, that would go far to remove the apprehensions which are still felt in many quarters in Britain.

One cannot, of course, expect a complete change overnight. In Mr. Hammarskjöld's words, "so far we have not reached the stage in which mutual confidence is restored and departures from the desirable line of action are such rare occurrences as to make it possible to disregard them." That is why there is to be a UN representative stationed in Amman and another who will "go as necessary to the capitals concerned for consultations and discussions." The U.N. is to watch over the fulfilment of assurances given to it. And it is another hopeful sign that this has been accepted.

So the "crisis" ends, though anxieties will still remain.

The British government is for many reasons glad to be able to take its troops out of Jordan. The operation will be carried out as rapidly as logistics permit—probably within about three weeks from the start.

And prophets and critics who have been telling the world that this was the beginning of a new and lasting British military re-occupation of Jordan will have to eat their words.

Letters to the Editor

Morbidity Curiosity

During a TV newscast about a week ago I watched an interview in Seattle with a young man charged with the murder of his estranged wife and another young woman. I have felt sick at heart ever since.

Surely it is a sad commentary on our so-called civilization when we are reduced to getting our "kicks" from the exploitation of the soul-rending tragedies of our fellow man! What possible justification could there be for causing such anguish to any human being merely to satisfy the morbid curiosity of the masses? We do not know for sure whether the man is guilty of the crime or not but even supposing he is guilty, who knows what lay behind his act?

From the legal point of view—excluding any moral issue—how can it be possible to question publicly a person charged with a capital crime? Where is the justice of which we boast?

How far have we progressed from the days when the people gathered with their knitting to watch an execution? Not very far it seems to me. True, we have made great strides in the sciences but have we kept pace in other ways? What an inheritance for our children!

Who Are They?

I find a good deal of amusement in a letter in the Colonist of Oct. 7 signed by seven experts on paintings on the exhibition of paintings from the Mexican artist, Mr. Andres Salgo.

Who, just who, are these critics? Who are they to criticize the work of foreign artists, indeed? Their letter shows, however, that they are not the work of the artist. Some people even think the work of the late Emily Carr was magnificent. I happen to think it is all rubbish—but, alas, unlike the seven experts I am not one of them—and know it.

DONALD LAWSON.

Presumptuous Painters

It is disappointing to find the front of the new Art Gallery already marred by mud-slinging and the attempted infiltration of art politics.

Even more disgusting is the openly declared insult aimed at the ability of our curator, the Mexican government and the people of Victoria. I refer to the present controversy about the Andres Salgo exhibition.

My criticism does not concern the quality of the work of this artist, nor his promotion tactics. They are his personal province and will be judged accordingly.

What I do criticize is the presumption of a group of painters to take over the responsibility of the ethics of our gallery and selection of a show which, I believe, is the specific duty of our curator and his committee. The Art Gallery was not built for the artists or by the artists, exclusively, but for the people as a whole.

The arts are a large part of our way of life and should be included in our Canadian democratic policy.

407 Queen Anne Heights, Victoria, B.C.

Not Theirs to Give

The editorial of Oct. 4 under the caption "Wenner-Green Deal" provides much food for serious thought, especially the glaring lack now in our parliamentary system of the vigilance necessary through a strong opposition in the House. The erosion that has been taking place—both federally and provincially—bodes no good for the rights of the people.

The public has not the faintest knowledge of the conditions, if any, that have been laid down at the secret conferences; nor do they know of any arrangements for the large blocks of stocks and shares in oil, gas and hydro futures that have been allotted, or granted, already for the provincial treasury, for that is where they should be resting as a moral buttress for faith from the people at large.

British Columbia, by force of world economics, is being courted for the vast potential wealth within its boundaries. It is very obvious that foreign capital will, and has already, cast its nets, but it is not for politicians—elected or otherwise—to imagine that the province was "given" to them as personal gifts to dispose of, rather than administer. Not one contract should be finalized with adventurers—foreign or domestic—until the clear meaning of same has been discussed in the House for the public to learn as to what is being done in their name.

844 FORT STREET

'Wrong Guy Hit'

Coun. Charles Nelles, chairman of Saanich parks committee, last night supported a subdivision's contention that he had offered free park land to Saanich and was rebuffed.

Douglas T. Hawkes, 817 Fort, was replying to criticism of major subdivisions voiced by Coun. Stan Murphy Tuesday night at a meeting of the parks committee.

'SHOULD BE DONE'

Coun. Murphy had said, in part, "If there is any means by which a subdivision can be forced to provide for lots it should be done. It amounts almost to criminal negligence to develop a subdivision without lot lots."

At the time the committee was discussing provision of a park for an area subdivided by Mr. Hawkes.

"Mr. Murphy has hit a guy who is on his side," Mr. Hawkes said last night. "He is hitting the wrong guy. I was willing to sacrifice $3,000 to prove it—doesn't that signify something?"

Mr. Hawkes said he had avoided subdivision of some four acres of land in the area and put a price of $6,000 on it if it was developed as a park. Subdivided, the land would be worth $9,000, he said.

TURNED DOWN

"Before Mr. Murphy's time (as a councillor), in two separate instances, I offered a double lot and more than a double lot in two previous subdivisions," he continued. "If I didn't get as far as council—I was told by an employee that council would not accept it if it had no money to develop them."

Mr. Hawkes said he had bought playground equipment after his offers were refused and gave it away free of cost to householders in the subdivision.

'HE DID TRY'

"I think Mr. Hawkes has a lot of right on his side," Coun. Nelles said. "He did try to have parks an integral part of his subdivisions out of his own pocket in the past and they were turned down."

"The Glenford people are certainly going to have a playground very shortly," he added. "It is just up to the parks committee to find the land."

JOHN E. COLES

Take your family out to dinner in October, suggests John E. Coles, President of the Canadian Restaurant Association. Restaurants in Victoria agree wholeheartedly with the president's suggestion. They have joined with restaurants throughout Canada in focusing attention on National Restaurant Month during October.

Victorians are fortunate in having such a diversified field of restaurants from which to choose... traditional tea and crumpets, the finest roasts, Oriental delicacies, European favorites and good plain Canadian food—can be found in the Greater Victoria restaurants, and Victorians are assured always of quality foods served under the most sanitary conditions, as the Canadian Restaurant Association members are fully aware of the high standard of ethics and qualifications required for membership.

In October, or any month, it is a good habit to dine out regularly in Greater Victoria restaurants. This is the confirmed consensus of opinion of restaurateurs and hundreds of Victorians who already have the habit.

Snow, Winds Sweep South

Winter Hits Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—Topcoats and goloshes were pulled from cupboards across Alberta Wednesday night as the first cold wave of the winter swept the province. Temperatures plunged to near freezing or lower in the northern part of the province, and from Edmonton north, the first heavy snow of the year began to fall.

The weather office here said the cold front, swinging down from the Arctic, would carry across all the province during the night. Temperatures were expected to drop to 25 in most of Alberta and parts of western Saskatchewan. A high of 35 was forecast for most regions Thursday.

The snowfall was heaviest in northwestern Alberta. At Grande Prairie, 280 miles northwest of Edmonton, 8½ inches had fallen by early Wednesday night and seven inches was still on the ground.

Heavy snowflurries hit Edmonton and about half an inch had fallen by early Wednesday evening, but was melting fast.

Donors to Community Chest Not Expected to Give Twice

People who donate early to the 1958 Community Chest at their offices or place of employment will be personally thanked by canvassers Oct. 15 or 16, campaign chairman Justin Harbord said last night.

"We are also anxious that nobody who gave a donation to the Chest will be embarrassed by being asked for another donation during the residential canvass," he said.

Persons who donate through their offices or places of employment will be given a sticker for the window of their homes, showing a red feather on a blue ground with the words "We Gave."

"If each person will put their sticker in a window with a lamp behind it canvassers will know they have donated, and thank them for their generosity," Mr. Harbord said.

Small "Thank You" notes printed on 1959 calendars will be given to donors displaying their stickers.

The residential canvass by Chest collectors will be held Oct. 15 and 16.

Mr. Harbord confidently predicted the full target of $300,000 will be donated or promised by the Oct. 24 weekend.

Chest secretary A. G. Gilmore yesterday announced Greater Victoria teachers have already donated $1,800 to the appeal and the total might reach $5,000.

Undersea Forts

British Officer Foresees Threat

LONDON (UPI) — Russia may be planning deadly underwater rocket "forts" which their submarines could tow into British and American coastal waters, a high-ranking British air officer said Wednesday.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Philip Joubert, former RAF Coastal Command chief, said in an article in John Bull and Illustated that these forts could bombard unsuspecting ports and cities with rockets.

Soviet subs may already be surveying the U.S. coastline for suitable rocket fort sites, the air chief declared.

British Officer Foresees Threat

He noted that unidentified submarines had been detected in American waters over the past two years, and claimed that two of these subs were refuelled by a Russian tanker.

With underwater rocket Joubert said, "Russian submarines could approach enemy ports in comparative safety and with their existing intermediate ballistic missile, could hold at their mercy every seaport in the United States and every big town in Britain."

He said the subs could also hide under the polar-ice cap and emerge to destroy allied convoys with a single nuclear weapon.

"There must be a drastic rethinking and re-orientation of defence policy," he declared.

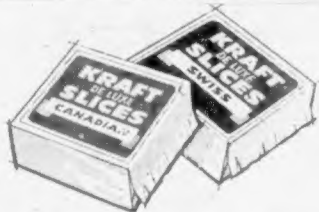

"If the major cities of such a continent are subjected to the threat of submarine bombardment — and our own island is much more vulnerable — of what use are surface ships, armies and aircraft?"

Tour the 'good eating' exhibit at the

You needn't travel far for an adventure in good eating — just visit your grocer's colorful World of Cheese Festival! You'll find exotic cheeses from Abroad and Here-at-Home... mellow, smooth-melting cheeses for tempting cooked dishes... cheese from Kraft to delight everyone! On this page are a few; at your grocer's, many more. Take home your favorites, and — for new menu adventures — some you've never tasted!

MacLaren's Imperial, nippy cheddar aged a year or longer, spreads like butter for appetizers, makes superb Welsh Rabbit. Casino Gouda, a richly-mild Holland-type cheese, is red-coated for gay color on cheese trays.

Fine natural cheese, selected by Kraft, goes into handy Kraft De Luxe Slices. Only Kraft gives you 4 flavors: Canadian, Pimento, Swiss, Old English Brand. 8 easy-peeling slices.

Serve it plain or fancy — Cheez Whiz, the creamy-smooth spread to serve from the jar, or heat for sauce. Rich, tantalizing flavor. Also Pimento Cheez Whiz, with true Pimento flavor.

A joy to hostesses — Party Snacks in multicolor foil cups! Cream cheese in 6 flavors: Chive, Roka, Onion, Pimento, Date, Horseradish. And get the new Philadelphia Cream Cheese, now fresher, richer. Plain, Pineapple, Relish, Pimento.

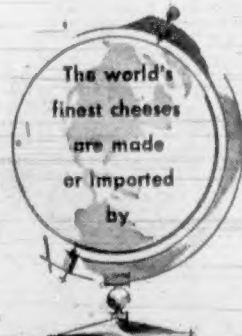

Real old-time "eatin'" cheese... Cracker Barrel, in wrapped wedges, no rind. Natural cheddar, "Mild", "Medium", "Old", new "Extra Old", for sandwiches, pie, or snacks.

The children's favorite, mild Velveeta, gives them all the goodness of a full gallon of milk in every pound. Always melts smoothly. For variety: medium-mellow Kraft Canadian.

Natural cheese in slices! Cracker Barrel, old-time cheddar; Kraft Natural Swiss (the kind with holes); Kraft Natural Brick, mild yet tangy. Swiss and Brick also in chunks. For snacks, Kraft Handi-Snack links in cracker-size. Canadian, Swiss, Garlic, Nippy Brand, Skimilk, Pimento.

National Appeal

Send Money For Schools, Faubus Pleads

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Governor Orval E. Faubus made a personal and urgent nationwide appeal yesterday for contributions to operate a private, segregated high school system in Little Rock churches, lodge halls and rumous rooms.

He wrote the appeal on official stationery with the governor's seal on it and signed the original personally.

THOUSANDS OF COPIES

Then he ordered copies sent to thousands of persons who have written, telegraphed or telephoned him asking how they can help.

"It is urgent that the students re-enter school at the earliest possible date," the letter said.

"This struggle to preserve constitutional rights, not only for the citizens of Little Rock but also for all the nation, is most urgent."

Dr. T. J. Raney, president of the Little Rock Private School above Faubus' signature.

It seemed obvious that there would be no need to make a nationwide appeal for funds if Little Rock and Arkansas segregationists were contributing as the corporation had expected.

But Dr. Raney and other private school officials refused to say how much has been contributed in a campaign that began more than a week ago.

They have mentioned individual amounts such as $5,000 and $3,000, but will not give a total.

Centennial Effort

B.C. History Book Ready Next Month

A B.C. Centennial Committee spokesman said the committee's history book, to go on sale on Douglas Day, Nov. 19, will be "easy for the man on the street to read."

"L. J. Wallace, committee chairman, said the history 'is not a textbook' but an 'attractive' collection of political cartoons, photographs, color plates and 'easily readable' material."

He predicted sales of the book, written by Dr. Margaret Ormsby, member of history staff at UBC, will rival those of the B.C. Anthology published in May.

The anthology, which contains writings by British Columbians present and past and is now in its second 20,000-copy edition. The first edition was sold out in two months.

Dr. Ormsby, who was commissioned by the centennial committee to turn out the history, spent more than two years writing it. Mr. Wallace said cost of the book will be just under $5.

Mungo Park, the Scottish explorer and botanist, was killed by natives in Africa in 1806.

Device Exploded 415 Feet Down

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UPI) — American scientists yesterday exploded an underground nuclear device, smothering its radiation beneath a chamber carved deep inside a 7,000-foot southern Nevada desert mesa.

The third full-scale test of a scheduled 1958 series was observed about 2½ miles from the entrance to a tunnel bored 415 feet under rock and dirt on a remote section of this test site.

Isn't He Handsome?

Mountbatten Salty, Smiling

Britain's First Sea Lord, Ad-Ross, he caused a ripple of excitement in the lobby of the Empress Mountbatten, showed in Victoria press Hotel.

man's man and a sailor's sailor. Inspecting the guard of honor and band of HMCS Naden at the dockyard soon after arriving from Ottawa, the tall, handsome and rugged-looking chief of staff of the Royal Navy was more than a model of dress and deportment: he was smiling and friendly, and thorough. He stopped in his inspection to talk with several men, asking most of them first, "How long have you been in the service?" (Earl Mountbatten himself has been in the service for 45 of his 58 years). Later, as he went to call on Lieutenant-Governor Frank World War.

He's a Sailor's Sailor

Undimmed by Years

First Sea Lord Still Dashing Destroyer Hero

By EILEEN LEAROYD

Last night, in the Vice-Regal suite at the Empress Hotel, I had a glimpse of the dashing captain of the destroyer HMS Kelly.

This was the famous ship immortalized in Noel Coward's "In Which We Serve" and her captain from 1939 until she was sunk off Crete in 1941, was Lord Louis Mountbatten.

Almost 17 years later he is still dashing. A figure of glamor and action, a war hero in 1941, in only a handful of years, Lord Louis went on to become Earl Mountbatten of Burma, last Viceroy of India, Admiral of the Fleet, First Sea Lord and to secure

U.S. Sweepers Coming Next Week

Five minesweepers of the United States Navy 73rd Minesweeping Division and a tank landing ship will visit the Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Navy at Esquimalt on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The six visiting ships, scheduled to reach the naval base at 10 a.m. on Wednesday carry a total of 31 officers and 380 men.

for himself a firm place in history. When he wears ribbons, there are 10 rows of them. When he wears medals, they form a dazzling spectacle only outshone by the gold braid he wears as personal ADC to Queen Elizabeth, the Order of the Knight of the Garter, the Order of the Bath and the flashing diamonds of the Order of the Indian Empire.

It is overwhelming to be in the presence of a man who has created history, who is closely related to most of the crowned heads of Europe, and who has performed enough deeds of daring to make fiction sound dull. It is also entirely satisfactory to have a great hero who is also devastatingly handsome.

SIX FEET FOUR

He is a very tall man, six feet four inches, with classic features, an aristocratic nose, piercing blue-grey eyes and a laughing manner.

Earl Mountbatten has the resolute look of the self-made man. It is not hard to picture him in one of his wartime roles, that of the hard-fighting head of the Commandos. Or in the role of Captain of the Kelly, which, in my imagination at least, makes him more the approachable hero of a well-read and loved novel.

The Kelly was mined in 1939, but Mountbatten got his ship back to port by skillful seamanship. Repaired, the Kelly was torpedoed in the North Sea, but he again got her home. Before she was reconditioned, Mountbatten went to sea in HMS Javelin and she was also torpedoed. He refused to abandon her and sailed her into port, her decks awash.

When the Kelly was again repaired, he took her to the Mediterranean where Nazi dive bombers sent her to the bottom off Crete. He lamented he had lost a silver cigarette box from the Duke of Windsor inscribed, "To Dickie, with love."

As photographer Ted Harris and I left the hotel suite, Earl Mountbatten of Burma and Baron Romsey, laughingly remarked that photographers usually took their pictures from the lowest angle to make the subjects look bigger and taller. Well, he looked bigger and taller to us than anyone we had met in a long time.

Buttle Lake Area Wide Open

The gates are off the Buttle Lake Road and the area is now wide open to hunters and sportsmen.

The long-awaited announcement of the opening of the sportsmen's paradise in Strathcona Park was made yesterday by the B.C. Power Commission just two weeks before the official opening of the commission's $30,000,000 Strathcona power development.

The commission has finished the Buttle Lake Road, which is still closed to the public.

The new road built by the dam-site to the northern end of what used to be Buttle Lake. To get to the new road from the new lake, Campbell River drivers will have to travel over 10 miles.

And Many More Wonderful Prizes

Rules... Important... Read Carefully

- Place an "X" in panel over the alphabet letter in right of the number on your card, if the same number appears properly in the SUPER-VALU newspaper ad.
- In each week's SUPER-VALU newspaper ad 20 numbers will each be enclosed in a square circle-diamond, etc. You can match these numbers on any card.
- If you have five consecutive numbers in a row-down, across or diagonally—you have a winning card. To receive your gift return the card as instructed on the back of the card.
- Numbers on your card are to be matched against numbers in the SUPER-VALU newspaper ad. Check the SUPER-VALU newspaper ad in this newspaper every Thursday. Newspaper ads will also be posted in all SUPER-VALU stores.
- Cards can be played at home on any of the newspaper ads during the twelve weeks but cards are winners and redeemable only if played on an individual week's newspaper ad, and all 20 numbers that were in the newspaper ad are surrounded by the same shape, circle-square-diamond, etc.
- We reserve the right to correct any typographical or other error or errors which might appear in any published matter in connection with this game, and to reject winning cards not obtained through legitimate channels.
- "CROSS-OUT" cards are given away freely as all SUPER-VALU stores, no purchases are required.
- Elimination contest will be held if cards are returned in excess of major prizes to be awarded.

Scotch Gale Blows Golfer From Course

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — An autumn gale of the first order turned the world's first golf tournament into a fiasco and a freak Wednesday.

In the first round, the wind blew the ball so far from the hole that the United States was second with 243, Canada was 244, and the rest of the field was 245.

The wind of the first round was so strong that it was impossible to play the ball into the hole. The ball was blown so far from the hole that the United States was second with 243, Canada was 244, and the rest of the field was 245.

Prosperity through foresight...

The fisheries have played a major role in the development of British Columbia. Important in furthering the progress of this province during the next hundred years was planning for the conservation of the Pacific salmon and other fishes.

The salmon itself is a multi-million dollar industry, a vital export. It provides both food and sport, a living symbol of this Province.

The very plenitude of the salmon often makes people take this magnificent fish for granted. But when streams become polluted or obstructed, the fish die and fail to reach the spawning grounds, the salmon industry disappears, and the province loses a major source of income.

Conservation is everybody's business. It should be the concern of people in high and low places, in industry, among fishing fleets and sportsmen, just as it is the concern of the Department of Fisheries of the Government of Canada. This is the secret way to assure plenty of salmon in the next century.

He Reigned 19 Years

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Pius XII may some day become a saint. Unofficial Catholic quarters said a dossier of "miracles" attributed to Pius XII had been collected. They include an unprecedented vision of Christ and a vision of the "Fatima Miracle" of the revolving sun. There also has been insistent mention of two miraculous healings.

Visions do not in themselves enter the cause of canonization, but they often speed it up. Vatican circles believed that the cause of beatification of Pius XII would be introduced shortly. Both beatification and canonization can take centuries.

'Miracles' Noted For Sainthood

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Pius XII may some day become a saint. Unofficial Catholic quarters said a dossier of "miracles" attributed to Pius XII had been collected. They include an unprecedented vision of Christ and a vision of the "Fatima Miracle" of the revolving sun. There also has been insistent mention of two miraculous healings.

Visions do not in themselves enter the cause of canonization, but they often speed it up. Vatican circles believed that the cause of beatification of Pius XII would be introduced shortly. Both beatification and canonization can take centuries.

Wanted to Be Martyr

Brilliant Mind Drove Pope On Throughout Life

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—An—and then more work. At about

Eugenio Pacelli of the dangers of missionary work in the jungles of Brazil. "I too want to be a martyr," replied the boy, "but without nails."

He did become a martyr in a sense. A man of peace, he was the horror of two world wars. He became Pope Pius XII only six months before the outbreak of the second World War.

On a summer day in 1943 he left the Vatican and walked among the dead and injured after a bomb raid. When he returned, his white garments were stained with the blood of the wounded he had tended.

Blessing Crowd

This is one of last photos taken of Pope Pius XII. He is shown blessing a crowd of pilgrims on the balcony of his summer home in Castel Gandolfo, Italy, Oct. 7.

Burning Ballots

White Puff Will Tell Of Choice

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—A puff of white smoke coming from a black stovepipe atop the conical roof of the Sistine Chapel will be the first signal to the world of the election of a successor to Pope Pius XII.

By age-old tradition, the process of the balloting of the sacred college of cardinals, whose responsibility it is to name the next pontiff, will be completed in the wisp of smoke.

Thousands of Roman Catholics will maintain a vigil in St. Peter's Square as the cardinals cast their ballots in a room close to the bedroom of the late pope.

If the smoke that curls up from the burning ballots is black, it will mean none of the cardinals has reached the required two-thirds-plus-one vote and that another ballot must be taken.

A puff of white smoke will inform the world that the college has selected a new supreme sovereign to sit on the throne of St. Peter.

There are now 55 living cardinals and presumably all are alert since none are known to be "sick unto death," the only reason for not participating.

Possible Popes

Seven Notable Names

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Speculation on a successor to Pius XII centers on seven cardinals: six Italians and one American. There is little or no chance an American will be elected.

Although by canon law any Roman Catholic male can be elected, long the secret ballot of the sacred college of cardinals, a modern practice only began this year. Six of the seven potential popes are cardinals. The other is an archbishop.

Of the American cardinals only Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York is considered to have any chance of leading the papacy, and that very remote.

Since the 15th century, only Italians have held the position.

The leading candidates:

Giuseppe Cardinal Berardo, 67, Archbishop of Bologna.
Giovanni Cardinal Sini, 52, Archbishop of Genoa. He is the youngest cardinal in the Sacred College and is considered a modern priest.
Eugenio Cardinal Ruffini, 70, Archbishop of Palermo, Sicily.
Angelo Giuseppe Cardinal Roncalli, 77, of Venice.
Venerio Cardinal Valeri, 75, of Rome.

Gregory Peter XV Agagianian, Cardinal of the Armenians, 63.
Miguel Giovanni Battista Minetti, 61, Archbishop of Milan and the only one among the "papabili" who is not a cardinal. He once refused the red hat.

Murison Satisfied With Talks

THREE C. A. P. Murison of North Cowichan came home satisfied yesterday from his formal talks between Canadian, British and the federal government.

Murison, who is president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said he was "very satisfied" with the talks. He said the federal government is now far more aware of positions where the British also are concerned. He said he was "very satisfied" with the talks.

Murison is president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, and was asked by the C. A. P. to attend the talks as a member of a delegation of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Gun Gives Polio Shots

Getting her inoculation against polio doesn't hurt Susan Jones, eight, a bit as Dr. Charles P. Anderson uses a new "gun" for the injection during Chicago's fight against an epidemic. The apparatus has no needle. Compressed air "blasts" the anti-polio vaccine through the skin without breaking it.

Pilot Blamed For Disaster

VANCOUVER (CP) — The crash of a Pacific Western Airlines plane near Kemano, B.C., and the loss of five lives, was blamed by the pilot for the crash of a Pacific Western Airlines plane near Kemano, B.C., and the loss of five lives.

Pilot of the ill-fated aircraft which disappeared Aug. 3 on the flight from Kemano to Kitimat was Edward Bell, Vancouver.

Those who died with him in the crash on the mountainside were David Milton Owen, 42, deputy Vancouver School Board chairman and prominent lawyer, La Col. Magregor, Mac

American May Orbit By 1960

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will try to put a man in space in an orbiting capsule within the next two to three years, defence department officials disclosed yesterday.

The $65,000,000 program calls for the manned capsule to orbit the earth for 24 hours, and possibly 10 to 12 orbits, before returning safely to the ground. But even one orbit of the earth would be considered a success.

First hint of the project came when Roy W. Johnson, director of the defence department's advanced research projects agency, in a speech at Stanford, Conn., said:

"It is our plan to have a man in space in 24 to 36 months."

Canadian Negroes Form United 'Voice'

TORONTO (CP)—Some 20 Negroes here have formed a Canadian Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

George Carter, a lawyer, chosen national president, said "We feel there should be a voice for the 32,000 Negroes in Canada."

He said one of the chief aims is to keep reminding legislative bodies of the importance of removing all racial discrimination.

Negroes in 1957 had the lowest rate of living among races in Western Canada, 8.14 per cent.

B.C.'s Finest Garden Being Developed at New Government House

A $40,000 miniature Kew Gardens, a horticultural delight which will be open to the public, is now being developed on the grounds of Government House. Highlight will be a "Rose Garden of the Ages" which will trace the history of roses from the earliest brambles to the latest varieties and will include historical roses such as the Lancashire and Yorkshire varieties symbolic of Britain's royal houses. In addition to other specialized flower beds it is planned to put in a large parking lot to accommodate 52 cars and four buses. The driveway will be extended around the rear of the property with access on to Richardson. Horticultural advice has been given by city parks superintendent Herbert Warren who will work closely with provincial public works department landscape architect Robert H. Savery, who drew up detailed plans, above. Works officials said it would be the best garden of its type in the Greater Victoria area, perhaps British Columbia. Roses already have been ordered from the United States, England, France, Scotland and Holland.

Flames Kill Fowl

Fire of unknown origin whipped through a two-story chicken house in Saanich early yesterday morning, killing 1,600 chickens and causing about $5,000 worth of damage.

The loss was suffered by Stanley Shaw, 1240 Glen who said the value of the flock alone was $3,200.

A fair amount of equipment also went up in flames but an other chicken house containing 2,500 birds was saved.

Saanich fire department said they did not know what caused the blaze, there was no heat in the chicken house but there was electrical wiring.

Liquor Store to Get Walk Curb, Gutter

City Man's Death Ruled Suicide

An inquest jury at Jackson, Minn., has brought in a verdict of suicide in the death of a 25-year-old Victorian, Michael George Love, who was found shot in the head on the roadside near Jackson a few weeks ago. His parents live at 1814 Point.

Esquimalt council held a special meeting yesterday to give the go-ahead to a $376.50 municipal public works project—construction of a sidewalk with curb and gutter in front of the new liquor store on Esquimalt Road at Admirals Road.

Municipal engineer John Graeme proposed Monday that the work be finished before the store opens next month. Coun. G. K. Sammon asked that approval be held up until the amount to be paid in lieu of taxes was determined and yesterday it was set at about $1,250.

Whether or not Victoria city will have year-round six-day shopping will probably be decided today.

Two draft bills will be submitted to city council. One would allow six-day shopping throughout the year, exempting all retail outlets from the Wednesday half-day closing rule.

The other has been prepared in case the first is not approved, and would exempt drug stores and "corner groceries."

A majority of council is believed to favor the year-round six-day week but possibly not a big enough majority to give it the two-thirds vote it requires to pass at one stage of the proceedings.

Merchants favoring restriction and those favoring six full days of business a week are expected to be well represented at today's meeting.

If they have a chance to speak, the Wednesday-closing proponents are expected to argue that a poll of retailers showed a majority in favor of the half-day closing and that the majority should rule.

The six-day rule is expected to argue that one group of merchants should not be allowed to dictate to the public that it cannot legally buy other merchants' goods on a Wednesday afternoon.

The chance of either side being heard today is small.

Seiner Salvage Starts

CAMPBELL RIVER. Salvage operations are under way here on the wreckage of a $100,000 Seattle seiner that sank after being swept aback through Seymour Narrows.

The southbound Seiner A.R. 7 piled up on rocks with three aboard less than half a mile from Ripple Rock recently decapitated menace to navigation at the south end of the narrows.

The seiner's skipper, Capt. Joe Hansen, his son and another crew member escaped by hoisting a heavy power skiff into the water as the blazing seiner sank in 60 feet of water.

They returned to Seattle by bus after making shore near here.

John Humphries, head of the Campbell River Salvage Co., said Capt. Hansen tried at first to get his blazing vessel into the shelter of Menzies Bay, but the strong tide carried her into Seymour Narrows.

With the hull burned away and flames sweeping over the seiner, the three men had no choice but to cut the blazing vessel through the narrows. They managed to get the skiff overboard and escape the fire after the helpless seiner piled into the rocks.

The salvager said he discovered the fore-end of the seiner with stronger emphasis on the wheel house had been dented subjects, particularly Eng destroyed by the fire when he fled and for tightening up of made an inspection dive yesterday.

ALBERNI. The referendum for future construction of a school, in this fast-growing area, will not be held this year, according to a thoroughly debated motion which passed at council meeting.

Ald. R. Foxcroft proposed the motion to rescind one made last May to limit the plebiscite at the time of the municipal elections. Ald. C. M. Blair, who had made the original motion, seconded it.

According to Ald. Foxcroft, the change in government at Ottawa holds a hope of a change in policy which will retain the post office in Alberni even if a delivery system is instituted.

He expressed the opinion that further steps should be taken to assure that the post office will remain before anything is done to accelerate the distribution of postal delivery.

If the post office is once closed, it would never be reopened, Ald. Blair said. A full discussion of the matter with the federal member at the earliest possible date was recommended by Ald. Blair.

LADYSMITH. Good progress is being made in School District 67 school building program, school board chairman Alex Smith said yesterday.

He said major additions to Chemsinus high school are progressing on schedule with students accommodating themselves to temporary classrooms in some cases, until new classrooms are ready.

Construction includes the addition of four more classrooms and an administration block to complete the conversion from junior to junior-senior high school status.

Grade 11 was added to the school this year, Grade 12 will be ready next term.

Administrator R. W. Ovenden reported the board is buying a four-acre site for $6,500 at Seaside Acres on Davis Road District 68 Ambulance Society.

Replace Scripture in Schools With Moral Lessons, PTA Told

NANAIMO.—Moral lessons should replace the present policy of scripture readings in British Columbia's schools. This was advocated Tuesday night by Mrs. J. B. Lynch just before the close of a nine-day conference of Central Vancouver Island section of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation.

Mrs. Lynch accused delegates of "sidestepping" the question of Bible readings. She said that Protestants did not always realize how offensive these daily readings could be to members of the other faiths. Apart from that, said Mrs. Lynch, the readings were a "waste of time" because they lacked continuity.

Forty persons attended the second of a series of 13 lectures on first aid held at Qualicum Beach high school in connection with Seaside Acres on Davis Road District 68 Ambulance Society.

This Is No Turkey

Melt-in-Mouth Switch On Traditional Theme

Thanksgiving dinner is a time when the average family sits around a table and enjoys a meal of turkey, stuffing, cranberry sauce, and pumpkin pie. But what if you could have the best of both worlds? What if you could have a meal that is both delicious and healthy? The answer is yes, you can. By switching to a diet of fruits and vegetables, you can enjoy a meal that is both delicious and healthy. This is no turkey, that's for sure and there are meals to be considered other than the traditional dinner and tasty meat loaf makes a first class fill-in.

Thanksgiving Treats!

It's that wonderful time again when we sit around our dinner tables and give thanks for plentiful bounty from this rich land of ours. Sunday dinner this weekend will be a special event and you'll be shopping early. The selection and prices of a harvest of fruits and vegetables is excellent so buy locally.

Most favorite vegetable is the sweet corn. Sprouts are another in butter. Now in season they are selling for two pounds for 15 cents.

Cranberries imported from Maine and Oregon are the perfect refresh with turkey. Make a few quarts. It's so simple. Top with cream and cranberries for a different taste. Fold this into red fruit into waffles. Batter with some chopped nuts—delicious. They're selling this week at about one pound for 35 cents.

The economy vegetable this week is locally grown cauliflower. The perfect extra vegetable. Cauliflower can be cooked with a white or cream sauce, cut up in sections or served whole. The secret is to cook until tender. You can buy a head for about 25 cents.

Along with these baked or steamed potatoes, why not potatoes? You can bake them right along with that turkey. Imported from California, two pounds are priced at about 15 cents a head.

The nutritional value of a night's rest is hard to make a salad. This weekend use fresh romaine lettuce or endive, newly arrived for Thanksgiving. An ideal of potato before the big meal, they'll be at various prices per pound or head.

Prepare you and the family sitting in front of a crackling autumn fire. To complete the picture, why not buy a pound of two of roasting chestnuts up to 10¢ for this weekend? The local chestnuts are fine for making pipes for the kids but they're not edible.

On apples here's a suggestion. You get the same quality as you get from the other farmers' apples and they're just as much. The apples here cost about $4.50 for a bushel while the U.S. apple costs $3.00 for a bushel.

This may be the last week for Yakima Valley and Okanagan Bartlett pears so buy a good supply while they last. They are retailing about two pounds for 25 cents.

The grapes here are looking good. The grapes here are looking good. The grapes here are looking good.

Truffle Sniffer To Star at Show

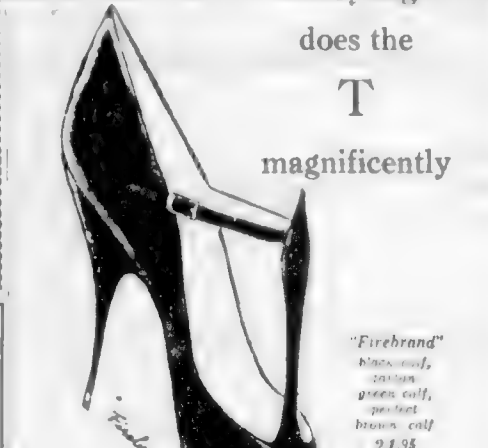

SAN FRANCISCO (NANA)—Mignonne II of France, it is hoped, will star at San Francisco's international food fiesta which starts tomorrow.

Mignonne is no Brigitte Bardot, but in her line, she's tops. She's the best truffle sniffer in Europe. (Truffles are an edible subterranean sac fungi.)

People are not adept at finding these gourmet's delight but pigs like Mignonne II are drawn to truffles like magic. And Mignonne is trained to locate the truffles, not to beat man to the punch in enjoying them.

Letting Husband Boss Home Career Wife's Toughest Job

NEW YORK (UPI)—A work wife's toughest job is letting her husband boss the home, says a business woman of the home.

"A man must feel he's the head of his house but it's difficult for the working wife to get him to let him be boss," said Mrs. Louise W. Lee, a business woman in charge of a company's public relations for a large life insurance company.

The received the "Woman of Achievement" award from the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Lee, who has no children, said her married life was a constant juggle of the two worlds.

"I never take a nap at home," she said. "I'm always busy."

Her husband works for a large company and she works for a large company.

"I'm a very busy woman," she said. "I'm always busy."

Your Health

Audio Tests Vital

This is another in a series of articles of public interest prepared for the school by the Victoria Health Department.

During examination of school children, particular attention is given to the hearing of a child's ears, which might hamper the child's progress in school.

Recently, we told of the importance of eye exams and the need for constant attention to vision. Another most important part of school health work is the testing and checking of children's hearing. This is really understood how hard a child at school would find if his hearing was not completely adequate.

The reasons for an interest in hearing are many. First, well-founded hearing infections or otitis media are perhaps one of the most common infections suffered by children. Each year, many doctors discover many children suffering from this condition.

PAINFUL CONDITION

Not only is the condition painful but it can take serious consequences. It can cause deafness, which is a serious condition. It can also cause a child to be unable to hear, which is a serious condition. It can also cause a child to be unable to hear, which is a serious condition.

When a child enters school for the first time, he will have a hearing test. This is a very important test. It is a test of the child's hearing. It is a test of the child's hearing. It is a test of the child's hearing.

CHILD SUFFERING

Once this test shows a child to be suffering from some form of hearing loss, the parents are notified. A later date will be given for a hearing test. This is a very important test. It is a test of the child's hearing. It is a test of the child's hearing.

The child will be told the nurse when he or she hears the sound and a graph is prepared to compare the child's hearing with that of a normal child. In this way, the nature of the child's hearing loss can be assessed and a plan made for him.

Usually a child's hearing loss becomes apparent to his school teachers or his parents. A child who always appears that he is not listening or who makes a very high volume or a child who makes many errors in a teacher's instructions in school should all be considered as having possible hearing loss.

NOT TOO COMMON

Deafness itself is not too common but varying degrees of hearing loss are. By early discovery at school, a child may require a seat closer to the front of the room, or he may require the fitting of a hearing aid if his hearing has already been severely affected.

Testing very young school children is quite difficult as they are often frightened and do not respond well. Each year the health department has the services of a specially trained person to test hearing in difficult cases. This audiologist comes from the Health Centre for Children and helps to screen children who are too young for the tests used or suffering from a degree of hearing loss which requires further specialized review.

Wives Try Hardest To Save Marriage

HAMILTON (CP)—Wives fight harder than their husbands to save their marriage when difficulties arise, says Mary Burnham, director of the Hamilton Family Service Bureau which has helped hundreds of families.

She says wives usually make the first approach to the bureau.

A series of problems rather than a single burden brings a marriage to the edge of tragedy, she says.

"The majority of calls come from families in the $4,000 to $6,000 income bracket. They are husbands and wives who have not learned to live together; parents confused and unable to understand their children; lonely people, scared people and angry people."

Baby Surgery Safer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Studies on specific knowledge of miniature adults and that's not being made by scientists at the where the imbalance has surgically been changed.

Children's Health Centre here says it is extremely hazardous. A syringe of blood can be used to make infant surgery safer.

They are studying tiny pin pricks of blood taken from the veins of infants a few hours after they are born in an effort to form a set of standards for normal behavior of body chemicals.

"When we know the recipe, surgery will be a lot safer."

the research, said conditions, Dr. Segal said little is known Chapter 100E will meet at the which make infant surgery about this field of medicine. Issue of M.S. George Mellor, essay often discuss the same. Without present knowledge 1120 Oxford Street Tuesday at real balance of the child. With we can only treat infants as 2-pm.

Some good long season subjects for your planters would be geraniums, both the usual kinds and the pendulous or trailing kinds, petunias, begonias, lobelia thurbergia (Black-eyed Susans) and perhaps a couple of diacasas for their palm-like foliage.

WORMY APPLES (W. A. C. H., Inc.) says: If the A. N. L. is in your apple, you are in the eye of the social chances; are this is the work of the coddling moth. It is almost impossible nowadays to grow clean apples without a thorough treatment.

For control feeding moth a good spray is Green Cross fruit tree and garden spray. Apply in the spring about a week after the petals have fallen, again two weeks later and for "topping" as three diamonds, a combination on the table that is almost impossible to better. That game is apt to be out of North-south's reach.

It seems to us that this is an unnecessarily pessimistic view of south's part. In our American Clubbing Series "North" might lead three diamonds, with a strong, what dealer hand so as not to let the defense get rid of their high cards. South might easily overpass a non-vulnerable bidding round, including the jack of clubs, or at least the nine. And even with his actual hand it's not impossible that five diamonds can be made.

To see what would happen, we slipped the hand into a full-part team game. Both North-South, minus bid to game. One pass, three notrumps, and could make only eight tricks. But the team that played five diamonds made it on a rather remarkable bid.

New Talks Sought By Labor Council On Unemployment

asked Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to "give urgent consideration" to calling a second conference on labor-management problems and unemployment "at an early date."

A letter sent by A. W. Toone, council secretary, also asked that "those people concerned be given the opportunity of assisting in drafting an agenda for such a broad conference."

First conference, held in Vancouver Sept. 25 and 26, collapsed when the B.C. Federation of Labor protested presentation of a brief by employers' representatives.

The labor group said "no real satisfactory results can be obtained from a meeting where the participants use the opportunity merely to emphasize their own special interests."

An RCN rating was fined $50 or one month when he appeared for sentence on a breaking-and-entry charge in city police court yesterday.

Joseph C. Aubichon, 18, of HMCS Jonquiere, had previously pleaded guilty to the charge arising out of the smashing of a window in a shoe repair shop in Trounce Alley and the theft of some polish and shoe laces.

"Just why you did this sort of stupid thing I don't know," Magistrate H. C. Hall told Aubichon.

There will be no city and rural mail delivery on Monday, Thanksgiving Day, a post office spokesman said yesterday.

Wicket service will be open in the morning from 10 to noon and the public lobby will stay open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Special delivery and mail receipts and dispatches will operate normally.

A Victoria trade union has urged its 1,500 members to support the Community Chest drive. IWA Local 1-118 asked for chest support in a form letter sent to its members.

The union will continue to press for government action on unemployment compensation, workmen's compensation, family allowances and other community benefits, the letter said.

"However, until such time as we achieve the desired results, we as trade unionists must play our part in helping to look after the people who are in need and for whom no provision has yet been made," it said.

Some 40 scholarships, bursaries and prizes will be awarded to outstanding students at the annual assembly of Victoria College, in Victoria High School auditorium at 8 p.m., Oct. 17.

Prof. R. T. Wallace, vice-principal of the college, said he expects most of the prize winners to be present. Some, however, are now attending univer-

U.S. Missile Crews Land on Formosa

A full battalion of U.S. troops landed on Formosa yesterday to man the Nike-Hercules missiles (similar to the one above) previously sent to reinforce defences on the Chinese-Nationalist stronghold.

Most Schools Say: Hoops Are Healthy

Though two schools have banned hula hoops there is no indication others will follow suit.

Two school principals even admitted to having whirled the hoops themselves, while others agreed unanimously that hoop twirling was a "healthy" exercise.

Earlier, hoops were banned from Dancaaster and Quadra Elementary Schools on the grounds that they obstructed traffic in the halls and tired the youngsters.

"I think the hoops are a great thing," said R. J. Berod, principal of James Bay Elementary School.

"We have had hoop-twirling contests and I took movies of them," he continued. "They are good for the kids to let off steam."

Many principals felt the hoops were a craze like the yo-yo and marbles and would soon die out.

"It is an innocent pastime," said G. H. Love, principal of Margaret Jenkins School. "I myself think it is dying out."

J. R. Mainwaring, principal of Cedar Hill Elementary School, said the youngsters in his school leave their hoops on the playground and forget about them.

Asked about the theory that hoops cause sores on the children's necks, Mr. Mainwaring laughed.

"If there were anything wrong with twirling the hoops, the doctors would have warned us," he said.

"As soon as the kids get sore from the hoops, they stop on their own accord," he said.

Canada Warned: Rockets Spell Danger

LONDON (Reuters) — The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said yesterday the installation of American rocket bases on Canadian territory would place Canada in a highly dangerous position, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Red Star said Canada intends to allow the United States to station nuclear weapons in Canada in connection with the "so-called command of North American Air Defence (NORAD)."

By agreeing to the NORAD setup, Red Star continued, the Canadian government "is about to take a step which will, as a result, increase her dependence on the Pentagon"—the U.S. military establishment.

"Official persons," the paper continued, "try to represent NORAD as a purely defensive organization, although it is no secret for anybody that it has been set up with obviously aggressive aims directed against the Soviet Union."

It added: "Facts show that there are in Canada political and military figures who are led by Washington and who provide active help to the U.S.A. in the matter of the aggressive North Atlantic bloc."

"The present foreign political course runs completely counter to the interests of the Canadian people, brings to naught Canada's national sovereignty and jeopardizes her security."

Thief Steals Shrub From 'Potted' Grave

VANCOUVER (CP)—A woman told police here that thieves took the following from her home: Two grapefruit trees, one orange tree, one pepper plant, one strawberry plant, three cactus plants and two small shrubs—one of which was planted in the ashes of her daughter-in-law.

Lasting Contribution

Prominent City Men Laud Jaycees' Work

Three prominent Victoria men—all past presidents of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce—last night paid tribute to the organization.

The tributes, in connection with National Jaycee Week, which began Sunday, were paid by G. Conway Parrott, president of Victoria Chamber of Commerce; W. T. Straith, prominent city businessman, and T. L. Sturgess, deputy minister of industrial development, trade and commerce.

"Self-development is the lasting contribution the Junior Chamber of Commerce mem-

Obituaries

Thomas McDonald Funeral Tomorrow

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3 p.m. at Chalmers' funeral home for Thomas McDonald, 54, of 2339 Musgrave, who died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday after a lengthy illness.

A native of Dundee, Scotland, Mr. McDonald lived in Nelson, B.C., prior to coming to Victoria where he resided for more than 25 years.

He worked as linotype operator for Victoria Press Ltd. until ill health forced him to quit.

Mr. McDonald was active in the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club in an executive capacity and was secretary for many years. He was also a member of the International Typographical Union local in Victoria.

He is survived by his widow, Ada, at home; a daughter, Mrs. George Vickery, a son, John Allan, and a granddaughter, Theresa in Victoria; a sister, Mrs. H. H. Currie, Nelson, B.C., and a brother, Ian, in Sunnyvale, Calif.

Mrs. Emily Skett

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow at McCall Brothers' funeral home for Mrs. Emily Louise Skett, 83, of 3074 Millgrove, who died at St. Mary's Priory at Colwood on Monday.

Mrs. Skett, originally from England, lived in Victoria for 40 years.

She was a member of the Daughters of England and honorary member of Victoria Purple Star Lodge, LOBA.

Mrs. Skett is survived by her husband, Walter, and a niece in England.

ON GLADE AEROSOL

Sprays away bad odours instantly!

Many room deodorants mask offensive odours with a heavy perfume. But Glade—Johnson's aerosol air freshener—instantly destroys them, then its own light fragrance quickly disappears. Tobacco smoke? Cooking odours? Glade's fast spray instantly clears them away. Stock up now on Glade Aerosol Spray at big savings!

SAVE 7¢ on Glade Wick

Combats continuing indoor odours!

Glade Wick goes to work instantly—gives continuous, lasting protection against unwanted odours in home "problem areas", like kitchen, nursery, sickroom, bath. No other wick deodorizer gives such fast, pleasant results. Keep a Glade Wick open in closets, basements, attics, too. No-tip bottle avoids spilling and waste.

Both come in two pleasant scents—Evergreen or Blossom.

Neither will injure or stain fabrics nor harm furniture surfaces.

GLADE KILLS OFFENSIVE ODOURS—DOESN'T MASK THEM!

News in Brief

RUGBY, England—George Fike, 33, of Toronto, an electronics engineer who felt his work was not good enough, electrocuted himself with an apparatus of electric wires to his head, an inquest here was told.

VANCOUVER—The Royal Commission investigating the collapse of the Second Narrows bridge adjourned Wednesday until Oct. 16.

EDMONTON—Alberta sub-board hearing generally supported a CPA application to operate a transcontinental air service.

VANCOUVER—George Horsting, 70, was found semi-conscious in a rooming house, the victim of a brutal beating.

ATLANTA—City aldermen voted down a bill to allow licensed gigolo services to operate in Atlanta. But the bill passed easily when the word "gigolo" was changed to

Oppose Freight Rate Boost

Provinces Fight On

OTTAWA (CP)—Representatives of eight provincial governments decided Wednesday night to appeal to the federal cabinet today against the railways' proposal for a 19-per-cent freight rate increase.

They will ask the Board of Transport Commissioners to discontinue hearings in the rate case and throw out the carriers' request.

It was understood their request will be mainly on the ground that the board has no jurisdiction to consider a freight rate increase on the basis of future increases in wage costs.

At Wednesday's hearings before the board, farm organizations and other groups protested against the increase, worth 17th century warship Wascana. The board heard a suggestion from the CPR that the new freight rate could be picked up by forming loose Western Canada's low-Crownsnest Pass rates on export grain, now held down by a federal statute.

A 3,000-pound bronze cannon has been salvaged from the 17th century warship Wascana.

44 Doukhobors Sign Exit Forms

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday that only 44 emigration forms have been signed by Sons of Freedom Doukhobors wishing to return to Russia.

Deadline to apply has been extended to Oct. 21 and Mr. Bonner said the government will entertain a further extension, but not to any later than Nov. 15.

Adequate Power Available Soon

By the end of December Vancouver Island will have an adequate power supply for the first time since the B.C. Power Commission was formed in 1945, commission officials said last night.

Its $12,000,000 Ash River development is expected to go into operation by the end of December and Premier W. A. C. Bennett will officially open the $30,000,000 Strathcona power development on Oct. 22.

About 200 guests will attend the opening ceremonies which will include a tour of the project, its giant earth fill dam and powerhouse, which has a 42,000-horsepower generator in operation and provision for two more generators to produce 126,000 horsepower all told.

Plea After Plea Refused

Motorists Too Rushed To Assist Dying Boy

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI)—A school bus driver, trying to rush a boy near death to a hospital, almost failed to make it yesterday when motorists refused to heed his pleas for help.

The boy, seven-year-old Francis McNamara, swallowed a colored crayon while riding home on the school bus. His schoolmates told bus driver John J. Wood, Jr., that the youngster was choking to death.

HOPES DASHED

Wood gathered Francis in his arms, ran into the middle of the street and tried to flag down passing motorists, hoping to reach a hospital faster than the bus. None would stop.

In desperation, Wood jumped in front of an automobile whose driver was forced to halt. Wood quickly explained the situation and asked for a ride to the hospital. The motorist refused, saying he would be late for work.

TIED UP IN TRAFFIC

Wood jumped back into his bus but found himself tied up in traffic. He again carried the lad into the street and finally found a motorist willing to make the dash to the hospital.

By this time, Francis had stopped breathing. When he arrived at hospital his heart and pulse were still and he was believed dead. Surgeons opened his windpipe, inserted a breathing tube, and cut open the youngster's chest to massage the heart. Within a few minutes the boy began to breathe again. He is still in critical condition.

For Drunk Drivers

Enforced Testing Doubtful

A doubt that compulsory use of scientific tests to measure drunkenness would be introduced into British Columbia was expressed yesterday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

He was commenting on Supreme Court of Canada action in upholding Saskatchewan legislation which requires a suspected drunk driver to undergo breath tests or face suspension of licence.

In Vancouver, Prosecutor Stewart McMoran says he would like to see such legislation in B.C.

Police in Vancouver make breath tests, but only if the motorist doesn't object. "Most drivers arrested are quite willing to show us how sober they are," he said. "But doctors, lawyers and accountants are notorious for refusing tests."

Vancouver Firm Wins Airport Job

Tender of $921,799 by Perini Pacific Ltd., Vancouver, was the lowest of 15 bids submitted for rebuilding of the main runway at Patricia Bay Airport. The bids were opened last week.

Second lowest tender was offered by Columbia Bithulthie Ltd., $924,318, and that of Peter Kiemit Sons Co. of Canada Ltd. was $1,614,686.

No date has been set for commencement of the work.

The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Association annual meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Friday in the sergeants' mess at Work Point barracks. Former members of the regiment are being asked to attend to elect new officers.
